NEWS OF OHIO'S CAMPAIGN.

The Situation so Mixed Up That It Is Hard to Tell What Will Be the Outcome of It.

WASHINGTON, September 16 .- [Special.]s soon as the president returned from age May yesterday, he plunged into the deration of the various appointments ch must soon be filled. The retireent of Secretary Proctor from the cabinet, and the probable transfer of Secretary Nole to a foreign mission, and the appointment of Attorney General Miller to a life indicial position on the new circuit court of appeals, together with the appointment of nine other circuit judges, two interstate Tipped from the White House In the selection of his new cabinet adsors the president will have a great opnity to strengthen himself. The slate, hich is "tipped" from the white house, akes General Lew Wallace secretary of rar, Steve Elkins or General Goff, of West irginia, secretary of the interior, and some rn man attorney general.

The president has been considering the commerce commission appointets today, and it is given out straight m the white house tonight, that he has acided on the southern member of the mission to succeed the late General agg, of Alabama, and that his name is ohn T. Glenn, of Atlanta, Ga., a democrat has been urged for the place by Colonel Buck, the republican, who has had trol of the distribution of the Georgia nage. The other member of the com n to succeed Judge Cooley, the chairn, has not been definitely decided upon, but it will probably be ex-Governor Gear, Iowa, one of the republican members of e ways and means committee of the last se, who went down in the battle of ballots last fall. The appointment will he made this week.

Ex-Congressman Clements, of Georgia, erce commission, and was strongly urged by some of the ablest men in Georgia, as well as the whole south.

The Ohio Campaign Mr. Yoder expects a democratic victory, but will not be surprised at anything. Represent-tive Mills left Washington last night in company with ex-Representative Yoder, of Ohio, for Mansfield, Ohio, where he is going to make his first speech for Governor Camp-bell. He will talk tariff and nothing else. His speeches will be radical enough, and suffi-ciently exciting to Mr. McKinley, it is be-lieved, to hold attention to that subject, and make it difficult to divert attention to the lver question. Crisp, McMillan, Springer, Hatch and Bynum, the other speakership candidates, are expected to go into the state soon. Bynum will go there immediately after his re-turn from his western tour. They will all talk

Mr. Yoder said today that he felt confident Mr. Campbell would be elected, though he confessed that the situation was such as to make all calculations difficult and uncertain.

"Nothing that can happen in this election," he said, "can surprise me, for, though I have been in Ohio politics a good many years, I have never seen before just such a state of affairs as there is now. I think Campbell will be elected. I should not be surprised if he got fifteen or twenty thousand majority, yet cer-tain things may happen to cause his defeat. There may be some trading on the legislature by the Farmers' Alliance. One thing that seems absolutely certain is that the legislature will not be republican. Sherman's successor will be a democrat out and out or a com-promise candidate elected by democratic

Between Foraker and Sherman "The fight between the Foraker folks and man's friends is as bitter as it can be, and, in addition to that, many of Foraker's friends are dissatisfied with McKinley. The alliance peakers are going for McKinley and Sherman hammer and tongs. We have nothing to do with that fight; Polk, Simpson and the rest of them have their own objects in view, but if they carry half the votes they claim, McKinley is bound to be beaten. Simpson is speak-ing to thousands of people, and the enthusiasm he excites among the Ohio farmers would astound you. Of course it is Sherman they are after particularly, and they are trying to help ocrats, but Sherman is more inter ested in the legislature than he is in electing McKinley governor, and the harder he is pressed the more attention he will pay to the legisla-ture and the less to McKinley's interest. The alliance, as well as the democrats, are pound-ing the McKinley bill, and I think two-thirds of the voters in the state detest that thirds of the voters in the state detest that measure, though there will not as many vote as they feel. The fall in the price of wool has hurt McKinley greatly and the only the fall in the price would have to the arguments of his opponents is that if it were not for his bill the price would have fallen lower, which is a very feeble way of avoiding the argument. The republicans are trying to overshadow the tariff question by the discussion of silver, but I do not think it will help them any. Tariff reformers will not be help them any. Tariff reformers will not be diverted by it, and, on the other hand, there are many free coinage republicans whose votes will be lost to McKinley."

WILL OUST MAHONE.

Conference of Anti-Mahone Republicans at Washington.

WASHINGTON, September 18.—A conference of anti-Mahone republicans of Virginia, in thick seventeen counties were represented, and have been sight to consider the advisheld here less night to ability of deposing General Mahone from the management of Virginia politics. A committee was appointed to prepare a formal cal for a mass meeting, and today this committee decided to have the meeting at Roanoke on October 1st.

The call entirely ignores Mahone as chairman of the republican state commttee, and refers to him as being responsible in advising the re-publicans to support candidates of the demopublicans to support candidates of the demo-cratic party during the last state election. The call is signed by ex-Congressmen Yost and Bowden, Colonel H. C. Parsons, Charles K. Lee, Major Hine, Colonel Charles E. Tompkins, Major Mahone, General Roller and others, who advise the holding of county-conventions to select delegates to the general gathering at Boanoke. The committee claims that fully twenty counties of the state will be carried by the reorganized party.

Mr. Welch Says Kansas Wants No More of

CHICAGO, September 15 .- Mr. R. B. Welch of Topeka, Kas., a very well known repub lican politician, is stopping at the Grand Pacific hotel.

"There is no longer any hope on the part of ex-Sorator Ingalis's friends of putting him up for an official position," said Mr. Weich. "Mr. Ingalis is a good friend of Mr. Ingalis, but not of Kansas nee her people, and she will repudiate him if he attempts to bob up again. For the first time in the history of the state, the republican party is thoroughly organizing itself for the coming fray.

"Hitherto it has had such overwhelming majorities that the necessity for organization was not apparent. Now we intend to teach the democrats, who are consoling themselves with the idea that the Farmer's Alliance will help them on to victory, that Kansas is republican forever. Every delegate to the convention from Kansas will be hot for Blaine, but this must not be construed to mean that the republicans of Marsas will be this must not be construed to mean that the republicans of Kansas are dissatisfied with Harrison's administration."

STATE OF THE TREASURY.

Secretary Foster Says There Is Plenty of Money on Hand.

WASHINGTON, September 16.—Secretary Foster today, when asked by a reporter about the financial condition of the treasury, said: "There seems to be a determination on the part of certain parties to insist upon the bankruptcy of the treasury. It has been recently charged that at a meeting of the cabinet an agreement was reached to hinder, delay and ostpone the payment of money for all public urposes, where such a policy was possible; that he secretary of the treasury has adopted a plan of pinching economy in the matter, reducing the amount of cash placed to the credit of disbursing officers. In short, that the secretary had found it necessary to resort to unusual expedients in all directions to pay non-extended 4½ per cents. In many quarters the secretary is given much credit for the means employed to maintain the bankrupt treasury." secretary is given much credit for the means employed to maintain the bankrupt treasury."
Commenting on these charges Secretary Foster said that no such cabinet meeting as that alluded to has been held, and no instructions have been given to delay the payment of appropriations for any purpose, nor indeed is there occasion to do so. It is true, the secretary added, that he felt that it would be good policy to restrict the disbursing affairs to their actual needs, and he has treated a close-study of each case with tide and in view. Four months since be found over $40,000,000 in the harms or the disbursing officers, when probably $20,000,000 to found over $40,000,000 in the hands of the dis-bursing officers, when probably $20,000,000 to $25,000,000 would have been an ample supply. Less than $33,000,000 is now held by them, and he hopes is due time to reduce this sum to the minimum.

Secretary Foster insists that the treasury has all the money required to maintain Secretary Foster insists that the treasury has all the money required to maintain a position of perfect ease, without adopting a policy of delay or resorting to any action that is not based on perfectly sound principles. But he admits that there is less money in the treasury now than there has been for many years here-tofore. The tariff legislation of last congress will, he says, probably effect a reduction of revenue to the extent of fifty to sixty millions, while liberal appropriations will just about consume the revenues. Money paid into the treasury, the secretary declares, will flow out daily as it ought to, thus leaving all the money not actually needed in the treasury in the hands of the people, where it belongs.

Carn Miller Dashed to Pieces by the Passing

GREENVILLE, S. C., September 16.—[Special.]—A negro named Carn Miller while driving a wagon across the Richmond and Danville railroad, at Greer's, S. C., yesterday afternoon, was struck by the east-bound vesti-bule train, and instantly killed. The two mules he was driving were killed also, and the wagon was torn to pieces. Miller was thrown a considerable distance, and his head struck the corner of a freight car standing near crushing his skull and killing him instantly. The vestibule does not stop at Greer's and was running at full speed. It is supposed that Miller was driving rapidly and the noise of the wagon prevented him from hearing the train. A row of freight cars standing on the side track obstructed his view, and he did not know the train was near until it was upon him

ANOTHER LINEMAN KILLED

By a Telephone Wire Crossing an Electric

Light Wire. CLEVELAND, O., September 16.—John Mc-Cafferty, a lineman for the Western Union Telegraph Company, met with a terrible death in front of the courthouse, in the presence of 100 spectators, yesterday. McCafferty was talking to some friends, and then began to talking to some friends, and then began to climb a telegraph pole to adjust a wire. He had reached a point beyond the first crossbar, when, with a shriek, he fell backward. His spurs caught in the iron steps of the pole, and he hung downward. A telephone wire had fallen across an electric light wire, and Mc-Cafferty received a terrible voltage in his body. His face and arms turned black, and he hung fully three minutes before a ladder could be secured and the unfortunate man brought to the ground. He died on the way to the hospital.

The Traveling Auditors.

CHATTANOGA, Teun., September 16.—An association of traveling auditors of America organized here today, representing a large number of railroads. The following officers were elected:

S. V. Carwine, Cincinnati, president, with the Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific road;

F. E. Brevard, of Knoxville, secretary, with East Tennessee road; A. H. Plant, of Memphis, treasurer, with Memphis and Charleston road. Circulars will be sent out to all traveling auditors of the United States. The next meeting will be held at St. Augustine in January. The Traveling Auditors.

Speech by Mr. Flower After the Nomina tion-He Tenders His Resignation as Congressman-The Platform.

SARATOGA, September 16 .- The democrat convention was called to order promptly at 10 o'clock this morning. The temporary organi-zation was made permanent. The committee on credentials presented its report on the contest in New York city, giving seats in the convention to the entire Tammany delega-tion. It presented in addition a preamble and resolutions reciting the irregular action of the county democracy and declaring the right of Tammany hall to nominate all inspectors of lections, poll clerks and ballot clerks to which the democratic party may be entitled in the city of New York. The report was

After the presentation of the decision in regard to the county democracy, the committee on resolutions reported the platform, and is was read:

Following is the silver plank of the platform:

The democratic party of the state of New York, in convention assembled, renews the pledges of its fidelity to the democratic faith and as regards national issues; and reaffirms the doctrines of the national platforms of 1884 and 1888, endorsed by popular votes in those years and so overwhelmingly ratified by the popular verdict in the congressional elections of 1890. We now, as then, steadfassly adhere to the principles of sound finance. We are against the coinage of any dollar which is not of the intrinsic value of every other dollar of the United States, we therefore denounce the New Sherman silver law, under which one-tention of our gold stock has been exported and all our silver output is dammed up at home, as a false pretense, but artful hindrance of a return to free binetaillic coinage and as tending only to produce a change from one kind of monometallism to another. We, therefore, unit with friends of honest money everywhere in stigmatizing the Shorman progressive silver basis law as no solution of the gold and silver question and as a fit appendix to the subsidy and bounty swindle. The McKinley worse than war tariff; the Blaine reciprocity humbug; the squandered surplus; the advancing deficit, defective census, faished representation and revolutionary procedures of the billion-dollar congress, were all justly condemned by the people's great uprising last November, a verdict which renewed next year will empower democratic statesmen to guide the people's councils and to execute the people will.

What Is Sald About Liquor.

We demand a revision of the various confused statutes regulating the sale of intoxicating inquors, and the enactment of a just, equitable and comprehensive excise law, framed in accordance with existing public sentiment as repeatedly manifested. We believe that all revenue whether called license, ease of taxes, should belong to the treasuries of the localities under whos authority the license accessed.

authority the dicenses are issued, to be applied in the burden of local taxation. We are opposed to all sumptuary regulation that seed lessly interferes with personal liberty or reasonable customs of the people. We favor the largest liberty for the individual citizen consistent with public welfare.

Other Features form upon national politics. The greater por-tion of the document, which embraces about two thousand words, is devoted to setting forth the unhappy condition of the state, growing out of the circumstance that the republican senate stands in the way of everything that cannot be accomplished in spite of it by the democratic assembly, and the executive declaration is made in favor of provision for a democratic assembly, and the executive declaration is made in favor of provision for a proper exhibit from this state at the Chicago exposition, and also of sympathy with the oppressed Russian Jews. The concluding paragraph is as follows:

We heartly endorse the able and statesmanlike administration of Governor D. B. Hill, during his seven years as chief executive of the state. He has resolutely maintafned the principles of the democratic party, and has faithfully contended for the interests of the people. He has ably resisted the aggressions of successive republican legislatures, whose object has been only partisan advantage, and he has been firm and unrelenting to vicious and corrupt legislation. In his administration of state affairs, he has received the intelligent and conscientous co-operation of his democratic associates in the state practically out of debt and left a generous surplus in the treasury. Efficiency and economy have marked their official records. We respectfully submit that this faithful discharge of the responsibility justifies a continuance of the trust imposed in the democratic party of which they have been true representatives.

Invitation to Colored People. The following, offered by Mr. Canter, of

The following, offered by Mr. Canter, of New York, also passed:
Resolved, That the convention views with gratification the growing friendly feeling towards the democratic party of our colored fellow citizens in this state, and they are welcomed to our ranks, with the assurance that within our party discrimination on account of race or color is discountenanced.

Flower Put in Nomination.

Then Thomas F. Gilroy moved to proceed with nominations and Mayor Potter nominated Roswell P. Flower for governor. In the course of his speech he said that the democracy of the state at their primaries and disracy of the state at their primaries and district gatherings, with a unanimity rarely equaled, have pronounced their choice of the person whom they desire to be made their leader by the delegates to this convention. He closed with a sketch of Flower's career, and Colonel J. R. Fellows seconded Flower's nomination for governor in behalf of Tammany.

Chapin Put Forward. Thomas De Witt, of Kings county, after Fel-

Thomas DeWitt, of Kings county, after Fellows finished seconding the nomination of Flower, mounted the platform and placed Alfred C. Chapin in nomination for governor. Mr. DeWitt, in placing Alfred C. Chapin in nomination, said:

"We shall vote for him at the beginning and we shall vote for him at the last."

Bourke Cochran seconded the nomination of Flower. Mr. Cochran was at one time prevented from continuing his remarks on account of yelling, presumably from the Chapin side, and when these demonstrations subsided, Mr. Cochran remarked:

"I suppose this is the first exhibition of surly temper on your part," referring to the Chapin men.

Chapin men.
General Catlin, of Kings, then took the platform and seconded Chapin's nomination.
John D. McMahon, of Oneida county, also seconded Flower's nomination.

The roll was then called on the nomina for governor. The result was annound Total vote, 377; Flower, 344; Chapin, 43. Total vote, 371; Flower, 344; Chapin, 43.

As the tumult attending the announcement of the vote subsided in waves of applause, it left standing on his feet among the Kings county delegation its chairman, Charles P. Adams, of Brooklyn.

"I arise," he said, when recognized, "to move the unanimous nomination of Roswell P. Flower."

The same that followed was sticked.

mained standing, could be heard. When quiet prevailed, he added: "While we of Kings return home with the feeling that their just claims on the democracy of New York state have not been properly recognized, we, nevertheless, will go back to a constituent democracy which has never faitered in the support of a democratic candidate and will not now."

This was the cause of renewed and wild en-thusiasm. Mr. Adams's motion was adopted. Sheehan for Lieutenant Governor.

Assemblyman McClellan, of Weschester, took the platform to nominate the Hon. William T. Sheehan, Erie's young and towering giant of democracy. He sketched his career in politics, dwelling especially upon the favor-able record he had made as speaker of the able record he had made as speaker of the lower house of the legislature.

Donald McNaughton, of Monroe, in a brief but hearty enlogistic speech, seconded the nomination of the young Erie lawyer.

Senator Canter, of New York, also spoke in warm terms for his comrade in the legislature, and D. Cady Herrick, of Albany, after a brief address in behalf of Sheeban, moved the nomination of Sheeban by acclamation.

The motion prevailed, while Sheeban's supporters from Erie shouted wildly.

Rest of the Ticket.

The remainder of the ticket was nominated reletiy and all by acclamation, but one candi-late being named for each office, as follows: Secretary of state, Frank Rice, of Ontario county; comptroller, Frank Campbell, of Steuben; treasurer, Elliot Danforth, of Che-Steuben; treasurer, Elliot Danforth, of Chemango; attorney general, Simon Rosendale, of Albany; state engineer, Martin Schenck, of Rensselaer.

The roll was next called by congressional districts for members on the state committee.

Nothing after this remained for the convention. It's work was finished. There was nothing to delay adjournment save the desire of the body to see its candidates. Soon after 2 o'clock the committee sent to conduct Mr. Flower entered the hall, and while every man stood on his chair and shouted, the candidate advanced to the platform, with smiles on his face.

When the shouts of applause had worn off somewhat, and when the bands had ceased their music, Chairman Raines, with Mr. Flower standing by his side, said: Flower Presented.

"Gentlemen of the convention, I have the discation of presenting to you our candidate for governor, and the next governor of the great Empire State."

When the demonstration that greeted Flower had abated so that he could be heard, he spoke briefly, saying he was willing to have "the light turned on" his record. He accepted the nomination and promised to lead the party to victory.

The applause that followed Mr. Flower's address did not die away, but was merged into growing shouts, mingled with the name of "Sheehan! Sheehan" as the young Eric candidate for lieutenant governor came up the aisle

"Sheehan! Sheehan" as the young Eric candidate for licutenant governor came up the aisle on the arm of Mr. Herrick, of Albany.

The scene was dramatic as the rosy-faced Sheehan mounted the platform, where Flower advanced, with outstretched hands, to meet him as the threshold. In full view of the convention the leaders of the ticket shook hands and engaged in a few words of hearty greeting. Mr. Sheehan then addressed the convention.

At the conclusion of Sheehan's address the convention, amid great cheering, adjourned sine die. Resigns His Seat in Congress.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., September 16.—[Special.]—At 10 o'clock Tuesday night the postoffice at Summertown, Tenn., in Maury county, was blown up with dynamite and completely wrecked. In the rear of the postoffic are rooms occupied by S. P. Kidd's wife and children, and these narrowly escaped death in the wrecked building, as did Allen Kidd, who the wrecked building, as and Amerikad, who slept above his store in which the office was situated. The windows all over the village were shattered by the explosion. This is the fourth time Kidd's store has been dynamited fourth time Kidd's store has been dynamited in four years. A man was seen running away after the explosion, and pursuers followed him by moonlight. He stopped to get a drink about a mile and half distant, and was easily tracked. He was finally captured nearly seven miles away and was found to be a man named Rutherford, who had been arrested for one of the previous offenses but was discharged for want of evidence. Public indignation is high, and for a time mob violence seemed certain, but better counsel finally prevailed. The escape of the seven occupants of the building from instant death is remarkable. Rutherford denies his guilt. His motive for the deed is entirely unknown.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., September 16. [Special.]—The Catholic Knights of Chattanoga are indignant at the star chamber investiga-tion of defaulting Treasurer O'Brien's books. The supreme officers are said to have finished the investigation and gone to Cincinnati.
They refused to tell anybody what the amount of the shortage was, and say they will not tell until an expert account examines the books. It is rumored that the shortage is $64,000. The local knights charge that the order is controlled by a ring, and charge them with complicity in O'Brien's shortage. They say that nearly the same officers have been in control for eight years, and have handled several million dollars.

It develops tonight that O'Brien drew $2,000 from the First and Third National banks Tuesday afternoon before leaving that night, It is now believed that he has gone to South America or Europe. The Fidelity and Casualty Company, who were on his bond for $50-000, has sent photographs and a description to all parts of the world for his arrest.

COLLISION IN A TUNNEL

Imperfect Air Brakes Cause a Serious Acci-Imperfect Air Brakes Cause a Serious Accident.

San Francisco, September 16.—Late last, night a freight train crashed into a car of the Los Angeles express just west of Girard. One man was killed and several wounded. The express was coming toward San Francisco-from Los Angeles, and near Girard was notified of a small landslide which blocked the track. The slide proved to be of not much importance, but the train was brought to a standstill on a steep down grade. The air brake refused to work, and the train went down grade through tunnels Nos. 15, 14, 13, into tunnel No. 12, where it finally stopped. A freight train was sent along after the passenger to clear up the landslide.

The flagman who was sent back to flag the freight evidently did not do his duty, for the heavy train went op and crashed into the rear of the passenger train. Colonel William Harvey, manager of the Golden Gate woolen mills, was standing on the platform and was caught between two cars and instantly killed. A. T. Baldwin, of Los Angeles, was out about the head. Mrs. Healey, of Los Angeles, had her back hurt, and Miss. Sprong, of Illinois, was severely bruised.

"I wish you would just say for me," said Colonel Livingston last night, "that the efforts of The Journal to make it appear that I did not declare my allegiance to the democratic party fully and unequivocally are infamously unjust."

The colonel had in his hands the paper in question, and as he spoke pointed to a paragraph on the editorial page.

"In the first place they havn't quoted me correctly there. And in the second, the extract of my speech which they have misquoted cannot, with any claim to fairness, be taken alone as expressing my position. am a democrat, and, as I said frequently before, the sentence they attempt to quote, I said that a democrat's first fealty was to his party, and that the majority should always govern. Now, what I did say at the time they refer to was that as long as the democratic party stood by its friends, and as long as it adopted as its principles the democratic platform which I held in my hand, and did not name a candidate antagonistic in his views-mark the difference between 'his' and 'our'-the result of the national convention would be abided by.

"I believe everybody who heard me will bear me out in the statement that the whole tenor of my speech was that the majority should control. I want to say distinctly that any effort to make it appear to the contrary is infamously unjust, and such treatment will certainly not be endorsed by the democracy of the state.

"But I can't expect anything else from a paper that has made a specialty of attacks upon the alliance. Such unfairness as that will certainly react upon those responsible for it."

Macon, Ga., September 16.—[Special.]—
On yesterday afternoon a sad death occurred in south Macon. It was that of Mrs. Ella Green, a lady of only nineteen years of age, who had been wedded for only a year.

Mrs. Green has only been a resident of Macon since her marriage, but she has made many friends in this city.

She leaves behind her a sorrowing husband and a newly born babe. She has been ill for about nine weeks, but her death was not expected until a few days ago, when her condition became alarming to her friends.

Her funeral occurred this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the south Macon Methodist church.

From The Chicago Tribune From The Chicago Tribune.

No poison brings death with more maddening agony than ammonia, but that fact does not seem to discourage the suicide. The man Harrowitz, who deliberately swallowed a fatal dose of the drug in New York recently, is only one of the many who have gone the ammonia route to death in spite of the excruciating pain. Dr. Blyth has recorded thirty cases of ammonia poisoning in the small London district of which he is health officer. Professor Mitchell mentions twenty-two cases, and four have occurred during the short time Dr. Jenkins has been connected with the coroner's office in New York.

Bought Up by the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia.

COMPETING RATES WILL BE STOPPED.

A Sensation for the Business Men of Ron Who Find Their River Co petition Ruined.

ROME, Ga., September 16.—[Special.]— Here's a sensation in business circles for Rome, if it is true, and the rumors are on the street that it is so.

The East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railway Company has purchased the White Star Line steamers.

What It Means. It means that the East Tenness ginia and Georgia has a monopoly down the Coosa river. Last year the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia purchased the Rome and Decatur, which runs via Gadsden to Attalla, and a purchase of the White Star Line means a control of the river transportation. Rome's rates by the interstate commerce commission for awhile were very unsatisfactory to the merchants, and they saved great capital by ordering their sugars and other goods from New Orleans shipped to Gadsden, Ala., reshipping then by water transportation on the White Star Line steamers to Rome.

Romein Hard Luck.

While Chattanooga has reduced her rates by help of water transportation, Rome, it ems, has fallen in the hands of a competing railroad line. The policy of the road is not known. The Coosa river is one of the navigable streams in the south and in all probability will eventually give Rome direct transportation to the gulf of Mexico. The river transportation under favorable management of the great system can add greatly to Rome's rates.

The Possibilities of the River.

It can be made a great factor in the city's prosperity, but, on the other hand, it can be very disadvantageous. The White Star Line is owned by Captain J. J. Seay. He could not be seen this evening. The White Star Line has several steamers. Thousands of bales of cotton, supplies and lumber, by the boat load is transported annually. The White Star Line is the only line of steamers now on the river.

GOSSIP OF A DAY.

Mr. Frank Ellis, of the Keely Company, is quoted in a dispatch to an afternoon paper as saying that he had taken no part in the efforts of the Atlanta merchants the Ryan compromise being accepted by the pression the dispatch seeks to make.

Mr. Ellis must have been misquoted or misdispatch which appeared in last Sunday's Con-STITUTION, and which seems to be the object of attack. In that dispatch-which, by the way, gave the first news that the comp had fallen through-it was stated that Mr. Ellis, Mr. High and Mr. Rich, among other Atlanta merchants, had been quietly working to prevent the offer made by Mr. Ryan being accepted, and that they had sneed

Now Mr. Ellis is made to say "It is a lie that I ever asked anybody not to compromise with Ryan." The most prominent dry goods men n Atlanta-Mr. Ellis can have their names at any time-say that he, Mr. Ellis, has been working, as they have been working, to prevent the acceptance of this offer of 30 cents on the dollar.

"We simply object to having a thirty-cents man put on an equal footing with us," was the way one Atlanta merchant put it yesterdey. "And we simply told the merchants with whom we do business, and who are creditors, how we felt about it. And we told them, too, that we thought they could get more than cents on the dollar."

In that same special to THE CONSTITUTIO it was stated that there was a rumor in New York o the effect that some of the Atlanta merchant had bought up or offered to buy up, some of his claims at 30 cents, and that some had been bought. That is literally true. Mr. Ellis may not have been one of those who made that offer; nor may the rumors apply to Mr. High, Mr. Johnson. or Mr. Rich. But the rumor referred to was afloat both in New York and Atlanta, and at least one of Atlanta's big merchants, when approached upon the subject, does not deny that he has bought some of the claims.

THE CONSTITUTION, has no desire to stir up any controversy among the merch of Atlanta. If they have done all in their power to prevent the offer of Mr. Ryan being accepted, they have done only what the in stincts of self-protection would naturally dictate and what anybody else in their places would have done. And if the credit men of the New York houses ask these gentlemen for their views upon the plan of posed by Mr. Ryan, they certainly should say what they think about it.

Congressman Crisp returned to Americus yesterday afternoon. He will remain there until the second week in October, when e goes to Ohio, at the invitation of Chairman Neal, of the state democratic committee,

There was fun, of genuine, pure and unadulter packed with an audience that reveled in the beauties of "The Private Secretary," and from the time the curtain went up until the end there was what the festive advance agent would call "one continued roar of laughter."

That comes pretty near expressing it. If ther was ever anything funnier than "The Private Secretary" it hasn't come this way. The play is in the hands of an excellent company. It is not a company that brags of stars, but it is a company of excellent players, each fully competent. A Macon Man's Death Follows Close That of His Wife.

Macon, Ga., September 16.—[Special.]—A very peculiar and sad death occurred here today. It was that of a Mr. Henry T. Ball, one of Macon's earliest, or rather oldest, citizens. On September 6th the wife of this old gentleman died suddenly at her home on Oglethorpe street, her last illness lasting only six hours. This morning Mr. Ball passed quietly away without a struggle while sitting in a large arm chair on his front plazza.

Mr. Ball is the father of quite a number of children and his death leaves them orphans indeed. He was a well-known and highly respected old gentleman and his death is much deplored by his many friends.

The Young Men's Prayer association of the Central Presbyterian courch, will hold their regular meeting at the church tonight, beginning at 8 e'clock. This will be an open meeting, and the young men extend a most cordial invitation to their friends of all denominations, both ladies and gentlemen, to come out and take part with them. Their regular exercises will last for about one hour, after which the young men will devote the time to social intercourse and will do their best to make all strangers feel at home.

and said he would see the boys again before long.

The other convict was a negro named Mayfield, and is a bad character. Mayfield is a preacher by trade, a distiller by necessity, and a burglar by occupation. He would run his distillery during the week and save the earnings on Sunday. He went on Sunday to see how the working of the distillery was getting on (it was on his way to church), and was captured by the ever-alert Sheriff Brooks. Mayfield is terribly incensed at the sentence placed on him by Judge McWhorter, and said that he would see him again. A Ledger reporter suggested that Judge McWhorter might not be judge when he got out.

"Well," said Mayfield, "I will see him in heaven, where all accounts will be set-

CANTON, Ga., September 16.—[Special.]— Court is in session this week, Judge Miller, of the Macon circuit, presiding. A large crowd is in attendance and a great deal of business is being disposed of. The jail cases, except that against George W. Pierce, for murder in 1865, and all the civil cases are being tried this week. Next week the criminal docket will be taken up, and two flurder cases will be to try. One against Pierce and the other against Hule, for killing Bradley, a few months ago, but it is thought neither will be convicted.
Unless postpoused, the case against Wehunt, for committing a rape upon a little girl a few weeks ago, will be tried this week, and the evidence against Wehunt is pretty pointed.

Mr. Atkinson replied to Mr. Sears. In the Afternoon. The matter was taken up in the afternous ession by Mr. Whitfield, of Baldwin.

"I feel authorized to say for the friends of the school," said he, "that we do not insist upon the school," said he, "that we do not insist upon the eighteen-thousand-dollar appropriation, if it be the sober sense of this house that the conditions will not justify that expense to the state. The school needs that much, but if the legislature cannot give it we ask you to give what you can. None of this appropriation is to go towards paying the debt due by the state to the city of Milledgeville.

It was taken up by sections again, and Mr. Fleming, who had opposed so large an appropriation for widows' pensions, called for the yeas and nays on that section.

Colonel Livingston to Speak.

Colonel Livingston is to speak at the capitol on Friday night. This resolution was introduced yesterday, by Mr. Jackson, of Oconee, and adopted:

Resolved, That the use of the hall of the house of representatives be tendered to Hon. L. F. Livingston on Friday night, the 18th Instant, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of addressing not only the legislature, but such other persons as desire to attend.

Georgia History. This resolution was introduced by Mr. Mar-whereas, The Young Men's Library Association of Atlanta has established a department of Georgia history and archives, the purpose of which is to collect and preserve historical records and materials of history from all parts of the state; And whereas, The books and documents kept in the hall of the Young Men's Library Association of Atlanta will be, at all reasonable hours, accessible to the public;

And whereas, The collection and preservation of such historical records and materials will be of great advantage in perpetuating, in form readily accessible to the public, additional files of public documents, and will tend to disseminate among the people of the state that knowledge of our history which it is desirable that all, especially all citizens of Georgia should have.

Therefore be it resolved by the house of representatives, the senate concuring. That the state librarian be instructed to leave on deposit with the Young Men's Library Association of Atlanta one volume of each publication of the state hereafter, and one copy of such previous publications as are not needed by the state librarian.

The Liquor Dealers' Tax.

The finance committee bill to increase the state liquor dealers' tax from $50 to $200 was taken up on its third reading.

Mr. Fleming opposed it in a strong speech.

The increased tax, said he, will be in effect a local tax upon the cities, as no liquor is now to be sold outside of incorporated towns and cities.

Mr. Reid, of Putnam, favored the bill. The city liquor deslers, he argued, could afford this extra tax because the very law that Mr. Fleming referred to gave the cities a monopoly of the traffic Mr. Reid had not concluded his speech|when the time for adjournment arrived.

The bill comes up today in the house, just after the reading of the journal, as unfinished business.

ORATORS' DAY IN THE SENATE.

The Day Was Devoted to Speaking on the Express and Telegraph Bill. Yesterday was orators' day in the senate.

No limit was fixed on the debate over the express and telegraph bill and the senate ac-tually wallowed in oratory for three hours, and the reveling would have continued indefinitely had not the 1 o'clock adjournment order been enforced by President Mitchell. Senator Glenn, the handsome and dignified rifle-bored orator from the Chicamauga battle field, opened the engagement with a forcible argument favoring his amendment to strike from the bill "express companies," and his arguments struck the bulls-eye nearly every

Then Senator Ellington, who is, by the way, Then Senator Ellington, who is, by the way, an earnest and effective orator, yet in the rough but susceptible of high-polish, proceeded to pound the express company and call upon his colleagues, in the name of God, to stand for the people and against monopolies. He cited instances of what he termed extortionate rates, and declared that the people were companied to use average companies in shipping pelled to use express companies in shipping perishable goods, and that they should be protected by the state from extortionate charges of this monopoly.

Here Senator Johnson, the bantam orator of the twenty-first, broke in to know the definition of monopoly.

Senator Ellington responded that he might not be able to give as polished a definition as his learned colleague, but his was that a monopoly is where one man or set of men have a right which no other set of men have or can have.

a right which no other set of men have or manhave.

"I want to say something about the Western Union Telegraph Company. They have invested but $20,000,000, and they have watered that to $80,000,000, and are charging rates that make a dividend on all that watered stock.

"The people of this state are watching us to see if we are going to cast our vote in favor of the people or monopolies. I am an anti-monopoly man."

This sort of talk seemed to arouse Senator Cabanise, the heavy-weight crator from middle Georgia, whose words are always as direct and effective as the blows of a pugilist. He was for the bill and he pounded the opposition vigorously.

against the bill until he heard the argument of Mr. duBignon, the attorney for the express company before the railroad committee. By that argument he was convinced that no such law was necessary. The constitution, he said, does not give power to the state to regulate charges of express, sleeping car and telegraph companies. It grants power to regulate railroads, but the legislature should just as well attempt to take charge of the banks or insurance companies or baggage transfer companies.

"Is it necessary to pass this law? Who is making complaint? Have you any evidence of extortion? I doubt whether we have the right to pass such a law. Certainly it is not expedient. It will do no good."

Mr. Cabaniss then spoke of the bulk of express business being interstate business and declared that the state of Georgia had no authority to interfere with that, but would have to call on the government for an interstate commissions. It would, he said, cause the necessity of other expert clerks or other commissioners which would be an expense to the state and would not benefit the people.

Senator O'Neal, the fog-horn-voiced statesman from Bainbridge, argued vigorously in favor of the bill and against striking out express companies. He said he would take a little trip around the state and see what the people thought of the express charges. He then read various letters citing what he termed extortionate express charges, laying great stress upon the fact that a constituent of his was charged $9.18 express charges upon a baby carriage from Worcester, Mass., to Peltham, Ga.

Ga.

He cited other instances and spoke vigorously and at length but to a certain extent destroyed the effect of a good argument by stating in his conclusion that his speech was not satisfactory to himself, as he had not intended to enach and was unexpected. Senator Terreil, the man with the David B.

Senator Terreil, the man with the David B.

Hill face, began with "Mr. President and fellow citizens," but when the laugh at his expense was over, went into an argument favoring the bill. He thought it was absurd to talk about employing norre commissioners. about employing more commissioners or more clerks should this bill become a law. He clerks should this bill become a law. He thought the commissioners were paid mighty good salaries and if they didn't know the express business he thought they could mighty soon learn it.

Senator Candler then began a vigorous speech against the bill, but was cut off by the hour of I o'clock arriving, when the senate adjourned until this morning, leaving Colonel Candler in possession of the floor.

The oratory is to continue today, and will end only when the senate has talked itself dry.

The vote on the bill will be very close. Both sides claim a majority.

Representative Bob Whitfield, of Baldwin, deserves great credit for his splendid fight in behalf of the appropriation for the girls' industrial school. It was only due to his splendid speech and work that the appropriabus, and other mill presidents argued briefly against the bill. The committee adjourned without action. The governor yesterday made a requisition on the governor of South Carolina for Butle Wingfield, who has been arrested in South Carolina for forgery in Augusta. The governor yesterday receipted for a check for $83,031, which was turned into the state treasury by the treasurer of the United States, the amount being the direct tax money refunded to the state of Georgia. The money will now be distributed among the people of the state who paid the tax.

Nearly every dollar of it will go to the coast counties. The house judiciary committee met last evening and decided to report favorably the

Williams jury bill. It will be reported to the house today. The bill provides that in civil cases three fourths of the jury can make a verdict. The Georgia Bar Association has endorse the bill and the committee on general procedure of the National Bar Association, in session in Baltimore, last week recommended that every state constitution be so amended. It is claimed that such a law will prevent mis-

Atlanta is a great milltary center and should have a good drilling ground.

Colonel W. L. Calhoun, at the head of the Atlanta military, is at the head of a movement to secure a suitable place for battalion and company drills and thinks he has about settled upon a location. He has in mind what is known as Grant's hill on Richardson street, and which is reached by two street car lines from the city.

The place is advantageously located and is admirably adapted for the purpose of the Atadmirably adapted for the purpose of the Atlanta military.

"We need good drilling grounds badly," said Judge Calhoun yesterday, "and should have them by all meaus. I have been thinking about this matter for some time and have been looking around for a suitable location for the grounds. I have my eye on Grant's hill in south Atlanta, and think it is a splendid location for the grounds."

south Atlanta, and think it is a splendid location for the grounds."
Heretofore Marietta street, in front of the custom house and opera house, has been the scene of the Fourth battalion drills, but the recent location of the Grady monument on Marietta street leaves that street out of the question. A new place to drill will have to be sought, and just at the time when the matter is being agitated Colonel Calhoun will spring his movement for a new ground on the Atlanta military.

The Atlanta military are almost to a unit in favor of the new grounds and it is likely that the matter will be pushed.

"The Atlanta military has always labored under a disadvantage as far as a place to drill will have to determine the summer of the new grounds and it is likely that the matter will be pushed.

The Atlanta minusty has aways lacoted under a disadvantage as far as a place to drill is concerned. Where we have drilled on Marietta street was too contracted. What we want is a good open place where there is plenty of room for drilling and for spectators," said Colonel Calhoun yesterday.

decline on late montas from Liverpool gave the bulls on our cotton exchange a brief inning this morning. But it was soon discovered that the improvement in Liverpool had no better basis than ancient and fish-like adverse crop accounts from New Orleans and Galveston. Besides the Liverpool figures this market was, therefore, steadily sold down and soon after second call the whole of the early advance had been lost. Then it became clear that southern bulls were unloading as well as pressing spot cotton for sale, with no urgency of demand to dispose of it. Some further decline was the result, January contracts receding to 8.87 cents. For some time after the third call business was very deal and the slight flurry which took place hear the ciose was very fittle to the advantage of prices. The pressure of spot cotton upon an unwilling and indifferent market may now carry prices back nearly to the lowest figures of August, for adverse crop accounts are for the moment pretty well discounted. Spot cotton was 1-like lower.

THE GERM THEORY.

Within the past few years a new theory of disease has arisen with the Medical profession, known as the Germ Theory, which has developed into a distinct branch of science, called Bacteriology. According to this Theory, all endemic, epidemic and contagious diseases are produced by minute infecting germs or microbes (micro-organisms) peculiar to each disease, which enter the system as mentioned in our treatise, page 12, under the heading "What is Blood Poison?"

It has heretofore been held that the unbroken skin presents an im-It has heretofore been held that the unbroken skin presents an impenentable barrier against the exit of these microscopic germs (microscopic bacilli, etc.) when they have once found their way into the system, and as it has been demonstrated that a remedy which would destroy these germs would also kill the patient, it has been a great want of the profession to know just how to treat the disease brought on by these microbes. But recent investigations in this branch of science, by Prof. Von Bumer-Zurick, as reported to the Congress of Surgeons at Berlin, and confirmed by a report of Prof. Eiselberger, of Vienna, show that these germs can be expelled from the system through the pores of the skin. It was demonstrated clearly that these germs can pass, do pass, and can be forced to pass from the blood, and from the tissues through the healthy skin to the surface of the body and thus relieve the system of disease. the body and thus relieve the system of disease.

To prove this Theory, experiments were made with two men, with a horse, a dog, and a hog, six times in a week—and in every instance the germs or microbes were found in the perspiration, showing that they had been eliminated through the skin.

Now, as SWIFT'S SPECIFIC has for about sixty years been relieving humanity of disease in just that way, we think we can but add the result of these experiments to the thousands of testimonials which we already have.

S.S. has been for more than half a century forcing out these germs, or thus bringing health and happiness to thousands, and it is a part of science at this late day to corroborate our Theory and show just how it is done.

We claim, then—and not only claim, but prove by these reliable witnesses—that SWIFT'S SPECIFIC forces out these germs of poison; and it does more than that, it forces out the poison itself after the body has been infected and polluted with it. For instance, in the disease of Scrofula, if there should be an ulcer or a sore, the poison will be forced out through that sore or ulcer, and the germs will be forced out through the skin; and it is the same way with any other infection—when there are no sores or ulcers the germs are forced out through the skin which sometimes causes redness and a rash, and even swelling, as mentioned in the general

Democrats and Their Convictions. The democrats of Georgia have on many occasions differed in opinion when certain measures and matters of policy were discussed in their councils, but when the time came for action they have always been solidly united and eager to uphold the will of the party.

Despite the indiscreet utterances and predictions of a few, we see nothing in the situation to justify the belief that the Georgia democracy will depart from its time-honored and loyal line of conduct.

Diversity of opinions will not injure the party, so long as there is unity of action. Every democrat is entitled to his own convictions on any question of party policy, until the party decides upon its plan of campaign and is ready for action. Then individual convictions must yield to the clearly ascertained and solemnly expressed will of the majority of the party. The democrat who follows this course is as loyal to the cause as any of its followers, and when he openly and squarely declares that he will stand on the party platform, and abide by the decision of the majority, no man has a right to question his democracy.

The democratic party has, and will always have, a diversity of interests in it. The lawyer has some interests that are not identical with those of the farmer, and what suits the merchant does not always suit the professional man. This is natural and inevitable, and vet back of all this diversity in minor matters it is possible for the most harmonious unity to exist in the efforts of these individuals to carry out the purpose of the party and work for the object it has in

The fact that at the present time our farmers have come together with the determination to reform some of the great evils which oppress them under the existing financial system necessarily causes them to express their convictions, and their choice of a remedy, in a positive way. This makes them none the less good democrats. Some disagree with them, but they are good democrats just the same. All these differing members of the party have equal rights in it, so long as they are willing to stand by the action of the majority. If a democrat favors or opposes the free coinage of silver, free trade, the expansion of the currency or the subtreasury plan, he has a right and it is his duty to advocate in party councils the measures and policies which in his judgment should be endorsed by the democracy. For holding and advocating any of these views it would be oppressive, unjust and undemocratic for any of his fellow democrats to attempt to read him out of the party, or to question his loyalty.

Here in Georgia the farmers constitute about two-thirds or three-fourths of the democracy. For generations they have fought the good fight without flinching. even when they had to face bayonets in order to reach the ballot box. They have always bowed to the will of the party, and there is no reason to fear that they will not do so in the future. Such splendid devotion to the causesuch untiring work-such willingness to yield to the decision of the party call for reciprocal virtues on the part of the democrats who are not personally identified with the agricultural interest. Those who do not agree with the farmers as to the best policy to be pursued cannot consistently set up the standard of a minority and insist that the majority shall

The rule works precisely the other way. If the farmers are willing to yield to the majority of the democratic party, all good democrats who do not agree with them should meet them in the same spirit, and be equally willing to accept the policy of the majority.

This is genuine democracy. It has held the party together and won its victories in the past. Our leaders and their followers still believe in the good old-fashloned democratic way. They have their convictions, and they are going to exthem, but they respect the opin-of others, and they know that when party must be supreme, and that will is of course ascertained by the decision of the majority.

It is well to bear these things mind as we go along. The Georgia democracy will remain solidly united nnless the unwise attempt is made to suppress free thought and free speech. We have never come to that in the past, and there is little prospect of such folly

Free Silver and the Speakership. Congressman Catchings, of Mississippi, who has been in the house for six years says that Judge Crisp will be elected speaker. His opinion is based not only on what he knows of the personal popularity of the Georgia congressman, but on the fact that democrats who, like Mills, favor a campaign with the tariff as the sole issue, are making a mistake and do not represent the purpose or desires of the party.

The tariff issue is an important one, and its prominence is undoubtedly of advantage to the democrats, but the silver question is equally as important, and the democratic party cannot afford to ignore it. The two issues taken together make, in our opinion, an invincible platform, a platform on which the party will win an overwhelming victory. To ignore either of these great issues would be to handicap the party and make the result at least doubtful.

For the question of financial reform is just as important, and perhaps more pressing than the reduction of taxation. people want more money to carry on the business of the country. The banks and the gold sharks have all the money they want, and they do not perceive that there is a dearth of currency anywhere. When a pressure comes upon them, as it did last fall, all they have to do is to call the people's treasury to their aid and inflate their credits until the crisis is past; but there is other business in the country besides that which is carried on by the banks and the gold sharks.

The banks have plenty of money to lend on call and for speculative purposes, but they have none to lend on time. Thus it is that the lack of money interferes with legitimate business. New enterprises are brought to a standstill and industrial development stops. Millions of dollars' worth of labor power that could be made available if there were money enough, is going to waste in this country today. The energy necessary to embark in new enterprises and to engage in industrial development is ready and waiting-the labor power that it needs is willing and anxious; but the money necessary to put this energy in motion and to utilize this labor power is not forthcoming. Nevertheless, the financial experts will tell you that there is money enough in the country, and prove it by showing that ninetenths of the business (that is to say, the business of exchange between the banks) is done on credit. What do they know about the energy and labor power going to waste for lack of money? What do they care?

Congressman Catchings is right. The democratic party cannot afford to ignore the silver question, and it cannot afford to make any man speaker of the house who is in favor of ignoring it. Judge Crisp is in favor of tariff reform and the free coinage of silver, and he stands with an overwhelming majority of the democratic party.

Mrs. Davis and Her Book.

It seems that Mrs. Jefferson Davis is pur sued by misfortune. Her book, "The Memoirs of Jefferson Davis," has been extensively sold throughout the country, and it was thought until a few days ago that her share of the proceeds would be quite a handsome sum.

But the failure of her publishers, the Belford Company, has left Mrs. Davis with very slight hope of realizing any money out of her work. Under the contract she was entitled to $4,000 last June. The Belford Company admits its indebtedness, but pleads insolvency. To make the matter worse, the company some time ago transferred the book, and Mrs. Davis is unable either to control the work or recover anything in a lawsuit.

It is well known that the income of the Davis family is very limited, and it was generally expected that the sale of the "Memoirs" would bring Mrs. Davis at least $20,000. She gave her entire time for twelve months to the preparation of the manuscript for publication, and the work in the opinion of leading statesmen and literary men is a valuable contribution to our history. It is a bitter disappointment to the widow of the confederate president to fell that all her labor is lost, and the public will share that feeling with her.

An effort will be made by the friends of Mrs. Davis to save something for her out of the Belford wreck, and if possible an arrangement will by be made by which she will share the future profits arising from the sale of the book. The American people, north and south, will not see this noble woman suffer if they can help it.

South African and Red Indian.

The Johannesberg (South African) Star has an article from which The Boston Advertiser quotes under the head of "A Disgraceful Editorial." This is the quotation: Mr. Merriman either lacks that saving brutality of disposition which is indispensable to states-men, or the frank cynicism which would have led men, or the frank cynicism which would have led him to boldly state... that the question on which our politicisms for the next few generations will have to occupy themselves is how to preserve South Africa to the white man, or, more plainly, how, with the maximum of expedition and the minimum of humanity; they shall get rid of the black.... The normal increase in the black (in South Africa), as compared to the white population, is as about two to one, and the plain fact stares us in the face that either artificial checks will have to be resorted to, or civilization in its highest aspects will become an impossibility in South to be resorted to, or civilization in its highest aspects will become an impossibility in South Africa... If the Caucasian be not played out, it, of course, goes without saying, that the ultimate victory will be his; but it is no less certain that his mode of warfare will have to change. He will have to rid himself of some of his humanitarian sentiments.... In South Africa legislation, as a general rule, has been directed toward prohibition laws, ignoring the plain teaching of experience that in alcohol is to be found the only influence which may be trusted to sap the fund of seemingly infinite vitality which will overcome civilization if civilization does not overcome it. It is perfectly easy to denounce such a suggestion as synical, but we are reaching the point at which the truth cannot be concealed much longer...

Our Boston contemporary says that such Our Boston contemporary says that such brutality of sentiment is sadly out of place in the nineteenth century. It is brutal, truely, and bluntly worded, but with a few changes it would be an apt and accurate description of the policy which humanitarian America has pursued with respect to the Indians. It is a policy which has been comso minded—the same policy, with a few im material changes, is still pursued toward the

The War Cloud in Europe The permission granted by Turkey to Russia to send her war vessels through the Dardanelles into the Mediterranean has caused England to take a bold step.

The British have occupied Mitylene, at island near the mouth of the Dardanelles. If the action of Russia in securing the use of the straits was warlike, this move on the part of England is offensively defiant.

Possibly Russia will advance on Con stantinople, or strike England through her Indian empire. France will stand by Russia, while England will have Germany, Austria and Italy on her side. She would let the Dardanelles go, and by permanently holding Egypt still have a road to her Indian possessions.

Undoubtedly Russia now has a pretext for war, but she is not ready. She has troops enough and a big fleet, but no money. England is better prepared for hostilities but she will do nothing rash.

The war clouds are growing bigger and blacker, but there may not be a gun fired for years to come. In a matter of this sort it is the unexpected that happens. It is safe to predict a big European war before very long, but not even the rulers most inerested know when it will break out,

At the request of a large number of the members of the legislature, THE CONSTITUof Mr. Clark Howell, made at the Young Men's Democratic League rally.

The request from the members of the legis lature was expressed in the following letter:
ATLANTA, Ga., September 16, 1891.—To Hon your speech last night at the rally of the Young Men's Democratic League was prudent, thought-ful and conservative, suggestive of the many dangers of a partisan nature and character by which the country is now confronted, and feeling further that it was timely, needful and in place full for the benefit of the party. ATLANTA, Ga., September 16, 1891,-Messrs, W fenillet, R. H. Lewis, T. J. Barrett and Others, House of Representatives. Dear Sirs: Replying to your courteous and complimentary request that my remarks at Friday night's rally of the democratic league be published in full "for the benefit of the party," I beg to say that it gives me pleasure

My hope is to see the democratic integrity of the state maintained; my belief is that it will be. It must be. But we have little good to expect in a policy of proscription and intolerance. Against such a policy let all conservative democrats unite.

If not dought that the few remarks I made were I find today that the few remarks I made were taken in shorthand, and thus I can the mo readily comply with your request. Very truly yours,

MR. HOWELL'S SPEECH

Delivered Before the Young Men's Der cratic League Tuesday Last.

"Mr. President, Ladies and Gentleme At this early hour in the morning I would be uncircumspect indeed, and would be doing violence to my own sense of propriety, not t speak of the patience of the audience, were I o consent to detain you any longer. [Cries of on, go on."] am the seventh speaker, and it is now half-past 12 o'clock. I am sorry that I am on the list at all, for the simple fact that no man can do justice to himself or to his subject at such an unseasonable hour. There is no disappointment in it to me, however, as I saw, by judicious calculation, that my name could not be reached in the regular order much before midnight. It is best that it should not have been, for from this platform tonight, you have had the pleasure of hearing undoubted and unequivocal democratic doctrine from the lips of speakers better fitted to talk to you than I am "Under the circumstances, therefore, I will or Under the Circumsances, therefore, I will not detain you longer than to say that if the time were ripe for lengthy utterance from me, I would occupy it with my whole soul in a plea for unity and harmony and party conciliation. [Applause.] I have no set speech to make tonight. What I shall say shall be only make tonight. What I shall say shall be only in simple reference and reply to suggestions made by other speakers. I could talk on this subject from now until daylight, for out of the fullness of a democratic heart a democratic mouth should find no trouble in speaking. Applause.]

"I have listened attentively and with great pleasure to all of the addresses made tonight. All that has been said in glorification and in praise of the party of the people meets with my hearty approbation. Every picture that has been drawn. tion. Every picture that has been drawn, showing the fealty which should be held by every southern man to the democratic party, has my earnest endorsement. Every argument which has been made, tending to the establishment of the fact that the unity of the white vote of the south has been its salva-tion, and that only through the democratic party can this vote unite, elicits my hearty "But there have been speeches made, the tenor of which, I am frank to say, I do not approve, and I may be excused for a reference to the remarks of my friends, Mr. Smith and Mr. Alexander.

r. Alexander.
'I was glad to hear from Mr. Livingston. the president of the Farmers' Alliance, that all the charges that have been made against the alliance being untrue to the democratic faith are unfounded, and to hear from his own lips that he stands upon the democratic platform and pledges the alliance to support the nominees of that party. [Applause.] I think he should be given full credit for that utterance, for, God knows, it should be the purpose of the democracy to hold those who have so many years given it the towering element of strength which has been so cheerfully exmany years given to the towering element or strength which has been so cheerfully extended by the farmers of Georgia. [Applause.] It should be, and is, the policy of the party not only to hold its own, but to make new friends, and above all things not to drive off friends who have been its life-long supporters. President Livingston has declared his fealty and allegiance in unmeasured terms to the democratic party. For those words I give him my hand and say: 'God speed you. We will meet you half way in a united effort to maintain the democratic soliditys of our glorious state.' [Applause.] Far be it from me to discredit his assurances of democratic fealty, as my friend, Mr. Smith, has done. On the other hand, I congratulate him on his speech, and I believe the league is to be congratulated for having given him an opportunity to make believe the league is to be congratulated for having given him an opportunity to make that statement of faith before it. having given him an opportunity to make that statement of faith before it.

"In the fight in Georgia against republican and bayonet rule, and in behalf of honest government and home rule, I am proud to say that the farmers stood shoulder to shoulder with all democrats, and that they have been loyal to the democratic party in weal and in woe. They have been true in the past and they will be faithful in the future. [Applause.] In the heavy majorities that we have so oft repeated piled up against the enemy these farmers have constituted 75 per cent of the voters. I am opposed to a policy which would close the doors against true and tried democrats simply because, as farmers or any other class, they may differ and differ honestly with some of us as to measures of party policy. So long as they announce their allegiance to the democratic party above all things, so long shall their opinion be respected and their counsel courted. My voice shall always be heard for tolerance, for conciliation, and for freedom of opinion among the white men of the south for only by multing sections. freedom of opinion among the white men of the south, for only by unity of action can we maintain that integrity so imperative for our welfare and our success. Such unity can only be gained by the mutual excange of opinwelfare and our second of the mutual excange or that the only be gained by the common consent that the ions and by the common consent that the minority shall always yield to the will of the majority. We are all degocrats, and can honestly advocate different measures of party policy. Some good democrats favor the infation of the currency and the free coinage of silver. Others oppose it. Some support the subtreasury plan, others oppose it. Our only asfety lies in respecting the opinions of all and in faithfully and unswarvingly abiding be the decree of the majority. [Applausa.] Mr. Alexander—a close personal friend, wave-companionship I always court. In a beauti-ful figure of speech he told the sacred story of the word 'shibboleth,' and adorned it with the moral that the man who on this platform, or any other democratic rostrum, could not faithfully pronounce 'the shibboleth of the democracy' should die the death of those who democracy' should die the death of those who were plunged into the river of old, when their lisping accent betrayed the fact that they were enemies. And yet, in the next sentence Mr. Alexander uttered, he denounced contemptuously the democratic demand for free coinage which he terms the free coinage craze. Ah, my friends, if that figure of his had been a reality, his head would be the first to fall into the basket when his lisping accent of this shibboleth of democracy demonstrated the fact that he too differed, no doubt honestly, with his party as to this measure of party policy. To that he too differed, no doubt honestly, with his party as to this measure of party policy. To the free coinage of silver the democratic party is unalterably and unequivocally committed. One after another the democratic platforms of the states have repeatedly and persistently demanded the free coinage of silver. Time and time again has the party in congress made many efforts to secure such legislation, only to be checked by republican opposition. There is no other question, with the single exception of tariff reform, upon which the democrats of the country have spoken so often and so forcibly as the silver question. They are committed unreservedly to that democratic doctrine, founded on the constitution of our country, and I am surprised that my friend should

"I merely use this incident as a moral. Mr. Livingston, in speaking for those who are with him, comes before the democratic party with the subtreasury and asks that the party adopt it, at the same time announcing his fealty to the party and his willingness to abide by the action of the majority. There is abide by the action of the majority. There nothing wrong nor undemocratic in such proposition. Every democrat has a right this views, and should 'do unto others as he would be done unto,'

'We should ask that others look at us through the same glass through which look at them. We should ask that they should govern us. We should, in demanding a right to our own convictions, yield to others the same right that we ask for ourselves. [Applause.] It is undoubtedly more undemocratic to denounce as a craze a demand on which the party is united and for which it has fought in several sessions of congress, than it is for a large element of the party to come before it with the respectful request for the consideration of a measure which is advocated for the supposed relief there is in it. [Applause.] I may or may not be right. That is not the question. The thing we have to ask is that all democrats abide by the action of the majority of the party, and when you say you do, you announce your fealty just as earnestly as I claim mine. [Applause.]
"And now, [fellow democrats, in conclusion, let me make a plea for tolerance. Give the let me make a plea for tolerance. Give the farming democrats, and the merchant demo farming democrats, and the merchant democrats, and the lawyer democrats, and all other democrats the same right and the same freedom of opinions that you claim for yourselves. Their interests differ, it is true, but they all point to a common end, which is the glory and the welfare of our common country. Only by united action can the south move on in the march of progress on which it has started, and God grant that the day will never come when, through bigotry or intolerance a division of the white vote of this state will be made.

[Applause.]
"I thank you for your earnest attention.

treet yesterday afternoon.

Mr. George W. Hall horsewhipped a man and held him until the police arrived.

The cause of the horsewhipping was because of insults to Mr. Hall's wife.

The young fellow who did the insulting and received the whipping, was arrested and locked up at the police stat He gave his name as S. S. Satchwell, and says he is from Birmingham.

Before the whipping commenced Mr. Hall took the precaution to knock Satchwell down, and bruised his face considerably. It seems that yesterday afternoon about 1:30 o'clock Mrs. Hall was sitting out upon the veranda of her home at 127 Fraser street. While sitting there a rather well-dressed young man of about twenty-five passed on the other side of the street. smiled profusely and tipped his hat.

fellow crossed over to her side of the street and leaned against the fence within a few feet of where she was sitting.

He abruptly made a most insulting remark, followed quickly by several others.

Badly frightened, Mrs. Hall retreated inand then walked off. Mr. Hall reached home a few minutes afterward and was told of the occurrence. Receiving a description of the fellow, he started out after him. In a few blocks he reached him. He wanted to be sure he had the right one. and collaring him carried him back to th gate. Here Mrs. Hall identified him as the man who had so grossly insulted her. That was enough, and, with a thump, Mr. Hall knocked him in the mouth. Another lick followed, and still another.

Then, jerking the whip out of his buggy, Mr. Hall laid it on. The whip fell with a swish upon the fellow's back, legs and arms, and with every cut he cried out. Mr. Hall bore in mind what his wife had been subjected to, and knew no mercy. He continued whipping with all his might until the whip was worn out and he was exhausted. He sent for an officer and kept the fellow under guard until Callman Ivy arrived. The officer carried him to the station house, where he is now locked up.

Satchwell, as he gave his name, is a rather nice-looking young fellow, on the masher order. He was considerably under the influence of whisky. Mr. Hall is being praised on all sides for his onduct, and such work as his will soon stop

Mr. Ransom was very indignant, and carried his little boy to the station house, where he exhibited his back.

Mrs. Cheshire is a well-known lady, and has many friends in Atlants, who declare that she could not be guilty of mistreating any one.

The lady herself tells a very different story from that of the boy. The boy had played truant, and she had let him off, telling him that the next time he did so she would whip him. Tuesday he slipped off and yesterdayshe went to keeplher word.

She whipped him with a small switch, and after making him sit down, he jumped up and ran to the door.

Just then afgirl entered and Mrs. Cheshire told her to stop the boy. She did so, and the little fellow jerked a knife from his pocket. Mrs. Cheshire ran up just in time, and slapped him several times on the back with her open hand.

Mrs. Cheshire says Mrs. Ransom whipped her girl for going home, and that the boy didn't leave until allowed to at noon. In the afterneon the mother brought the boy to her, and the teacher cried when she saw how red the boy's back was. The mother said it was because he had been sick and the flesh was tender, and thought Mrs. Cheshire had done nothing wrong.

League Promises to Have Tonight.

The Railroad Men's Protective League will hold a rousing meeting at Centennial hall this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The executive committee met at the call of Chairman John Celvin on Monday night and formulated the constitution and by-laws, which will be submitted to the league tonight for ratification. While their work has not yet been made public, and will not be until passed on by the league, sufficient is known to guarantee that their work was well done, and that every article or adopted by the league are that no question of labor troubles, nor of pro or anti shall cut any figure in their meetings.

It is safe to assert that any candidates the league may put out will go uninstructed as to how they shall vote upon the prohibition question. They recognize fully that any discussion on this point would ultimately result in dissension in their ranks, and this they are determined to avoid.

The league is all the talk among railroad men, and a canvass through the yards, depots and everywhere that railroad men are to be found, shows that the objects of the league, as set forth in the resolutions by President Broyles, meet with unanimous endorsement. The league expects to take in two or three hundred new members tonight, and an interesting programme has been prepared for the evening. Among the speakers who will address the meeting upon the necessity of consolidation are: Captain J. C. Haskill, agent of the Central railroad; C. S. Evans, assistant superintendent of the Western and Atlantic; Mr. O. Reneau, conductor of the Central railroad, and others.

All railroad men of any class or position are eligible to membership. The initiation fee is a nominal sum, being needed to assist in covering the expenses of hall rent and other incidentals.

The Robbers of the Central Railroad Express Car

CAPTURED IN FLORIDA BY DETECTIVES.

How They Were Spotted and Pursued. Trailing the Robbers to Their Den.

SAVANNAH, Ga., September 16.-[Special.]-Detective skill and cunning have triumphed, and the main parties, all Savannahians, implicated in last Friday night's express car robbery are now under arrest.

The following telegram was received by Agent Cooper, of the Southern Express Company, at 5 o'clock this afternoon. "Madison, Fla., September 16 .- Captured all three robbers this morning at 3:30 o'clock, near Mosely Hall, seventeen miles south of Madison, and secured nearly all C. L. MYERS." the money.

The names of the three captured are: J. E. DELAUGHTER, a brakeman, who resides at 14 Margaret street. J. A. TURNER, flagman, who resides at

16 Purse street. J. M. PERKINS, also a flagman, who lives at 2304 Charlton street. All were, until recently, in the Central's

The detectives at work on the case, have followed up the trail and put the clues together in a manner that would do credit to the heroes of the dime-novel tales. With the flimiest and slightest kind of clue to work on at the outset, they have succeeded, in four days' time, in ferreting out the guilty parties, and putting them under arrest. In addition to this, they have recovered the greater part of the stolen booty. The robbers, it is learned, stole $400 in money and a oneusand-dollar bond. The bond and $75 of the money have been recovered, making the mal loss to the express company only $325.

The detectives who have been working at the case and who made the capture are T. B. Jackson, the man who ran Rube Burrows down; Si Basch, of Savannah, one of the keenest in the south: Captain Crim, of Atlanta, and Detective Bedford, of Atlanta. Superintendent C. L. Myers, of the Southern Express Company, was also on the spot when the capture was made.

The three men, when cornered by the detectives, made a desperate resistance, and it was only after a fierce struggle that they were

The detectives went out to No. 277 Henry street lane, a place of unsavory repute, last Saturday evening. It was there that the information was secured that finally led to the detection and capture of the robbers. The detectives had the very slightest grounds for thinking that the women in the house knew anything of the robbery, and it was more as an experiment than anything else that Wetherorn approached one of them.

"One of the women in the house has told all about the robbery," he remarked, know-

"If the s-of-a-b- has given it all away," was the reply, "I'll give up the money I've Accordingly she went in the house and brought out the one-thousand-dollar bond. The three robbers were in the habit of frequently visiting this house. They took the women into their confidence in regard to the proposed robbery and told all their plans. The women their purpose, but without avail. Their retrances were laughed at, DeLaughter remarking scornfully that it would not be the first time he had tried his hand at affairs of this kind. The women's efforts at dissuasion did not last long, for they finally made them the masks, which they wore when the robbery was committed.

It is supposed that the three men boarded the train at Savannah at 8:10 o'clock, but this is not known positively. After the robbery nmated they skirted around in a southeasterly direction, entering the city in the vicinity of Laurel Grove cemetery, between 11 and 12 o'clock that night. They at once went to the house on Henry street, where they remained all night. The booty was divided here and each of the women in the house was given $22.

They had, according to reports, a high old time on that Friday night.

"Didn't I pull that bell cord handsomely?"

Perkins asked DeLaughter.

"Yes, d-n you," said DeLaughter, "and you had to go and stum ble in that ditch after getting off the train and discharge your pistol, causing all the rest to fire."

This accounts for the volley fired at the A short distance from the railroad track is a ditch, partly covered with branches and brush. Perkins stumbled in this, and when he fell his pistol went off accidentally, giving the alarm to the passengers. In order prevent pursuit, the whole party then began ting volley after volley at the car.

Early the next morning, before leaving, the men told the women that if they were not home in time for dirmer they need not expect them at all. They also stated that in case they should leave the city they would go south along the line of the Savannah, Florida

"We've got plenty of money now," one of them said, "and will have more when we get to Florida." The women were into Florida." The women were in-structed, if not advised to the contrary before that time, to take the Savannah Florida and Western train on Monday after n. They were to travel south until they saw the three men at some station. The latter said they did not know at what place they would stop, but that Monday evening and night they would be at some station along the route on the lookout for them.

The men procured a paper with an account of the robbery Saturday morning, and after reading it thought it advisable to skip out. Three men answering their description turned urday evening at Burroughs's station and ght tickets to Live Oak, Fla. The de tives, after getting the evidence from the women, had little difficulty in lo-cating the men in the country district contiguous to Madison, Fla. The detectives, with Superintendent Myers, pro-ceeded to that place Monday evening. Noth-ing was heard in regard to their movements or success in trailing the fugitives until the tele-gram was received this afternoon announcing their capture.

The detectives will arrive in the city with their prisoners tomorrow morning. General excitement prevailed around the city when the fact of the robbery became generally known. Nothing else was discussed around the hotels, and in the different business otels, and in the different business. The work of the detectives is in for a great deal of the kind of praise. The manner in the detectives have worked on the information they possessed at the outset their ability. Clue after cine was together until they at length had a chain of evidence. Taken altogether about as fine a piece of work as has Detective T. B. Jackson arrived here Sunday night from Atlanta, and was given full charge of the case. Everything that has been done since that time has been by his instructions. Agent Cooper says that the entire matter of superintending the detective work and devising the plans of procedure have been in his hands.

As before stated, however, he has been ably

As before stated, however, he has been ably assisted by Basch, Wetherhorn, Bedford and Crim. The local papers have been in possession of the facts in the case for a day or two, but withheld the publication of the story for fear that it would ruin the work of the de-

It is the opinion of Agent Cooper and a great many others that the three men arrested are not the only ones concerned in the robbery. Perkins is a married man and lived with his wife at 2301 Charlton street. Turner is also a married man and has a wife and three children. His wife has not lived with him for three months. DeLaughter is supposed to be a single man. He had been in the employ of the Central Railroad Company for over two years. He is said to be the worst character of the three. All three of the men have been engaged in the systematic robbery of the cars of the Central railroad that has been going on for some years past. Proof of this was found at the house of the woman. It is believed that one of them will turn state's evidence, and that other mem bers of the gang, of whom there are believed to be several, will be caught in this way.

The extreme penalty that can be inflicted on the robbers on all charges growing out of the robbery is twenty years' imprisonment. It is probable that the extreme penalty of the law will be meted out in order to make of them an example for other aspiring men with a similar inclination. The three men who robbed an express car on the Central railroad near Savannah last Friday night were arrested yesterday morning at 4 o'clock.

They were captured near Madison, Fla., and two Atlanta detectives, Bedford and Crim, were largely instrumental in the success of the

This information was received by Route Agent O. F. Owen in a telegram received yesterday.

The three men arrested, according to the telegram, were J. E. De Laughter, J. M. Perkins and J. A. Turner, all ex-employes of the Central road. All are known as desperate men, and the first has killed two men.

The arrest was made after a sharp battle, the robbers making great resistance. The particulars of the fight were not sent to Mr. Owen.

The amount taken by them was $1,500, nearly all of which was recovered by the officers.

Tuesday the men had been spotted and part of the money secured. The officers were sure the day before that they would catch their men, and in anticipation of getting them in Florida, Mr. E. F. Yesterday morning he returned to Sayannah and Florida with them.
Detectives Crim and Bedford are expected in Atlanta today or tomorrow. The prisoners will be carried to Sayannah today.
About the matter Mr. Owen said:

The track management again refused to make known the entries until twenty minutes before each race, and as that was entirely too little time in which to as that was entirely too little time in which to carefully consider the chances of the different starters, the public refused to invest to any great extent. This caused intense dissatisfaction among the bookmakers, and at the next drawing which occurs Saturday, a number of them will refuse to go on. The weather could not have been improved upon and the track was in first-class shape. The racing was up to the usual standard, but as a greater portion or what little money was invested remained in the bookmakers' strong boxes, it was a disgrantied crowd that left the track after the sixth race.

What Led to the Quarrel.

Who is it that is not familiar with the quarrel between the two great friends, Cassius and rel between the two great friends, Cassius and Brutus, and yet how 'few really known the prime cause which led to this quarrel? Roman history has suppressed in a great measure the true origin of the difficulty. But Brutus, "the noblest Roman of them all," plainly gives the snap away when chiding his friend by exclaiming, "Thou hast an itching palm." The whole truth of the business was, Cassius was suffering with Tetter; and to a man of Brutus's retinement, what wonder that this plebian disease should have led to the difficulty. Totterine could have healed this breach. Price 50 cents. All druggists or by mail.

THEIR CHARTER RECEIVED

For the Manchester Investment Co.—Stock holders' Meeting Yesterday Afternoon and What Was Done.

Yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock the stockholders' meeting of the Manchester Investment Co., was held at the office of Mr. J. A. Scott, 2 Peachtree st. The meeting was largely attended and great interest was manifested.

The charter for the Manchester Investment Co. was received and the following board of directors was elected:

A. D. Adair, W. A. Hemphill, J. B. Hawthorn W. L. Stanton, J. A. Scott, J. W. Northen, C. M. Neal, E. P. Chamberlin, Dr. J. J. Knott, E. M.

After the election of the directors the stock olders adjourned and the directors held a meetng and elected the following officers: E. M. Blalock, president; J. A. Scott, secretary;

M. Duggar, treasurer. The prospects of Manchester were fully dis-cussed at the directors' meeting, and plans set on oot that when consummated will make it one of the greatest educational centers in the south and an ideal residence city. There is only a small amount of stock yet to be placed, and the board of directors promised to have it placed in the next few days. Now that the charter has been received and the board of directors elected, the work will be pushed rapidly to completion, and those who desire stock or lots can obtain them by conferring with any of the directors.

The Georgia Military Institute is pushing their work right along, and Professor C. M. Neal at Edgewood desires plans for his school so that he may begin building as early as possible.

But Lafayette was too dull for young Stein, ason he enlivened life there by several rather suring escapades, which finally resulted in conceing his doting parents that other access would amore conducive to his welfare and the comfort. Consequently the young mailist one night boarded a train for the set, his ultimate object being to go to Leadville, oil, and his immediate aim being to dodge a matable who was just behind him with a warnat sworn out by a pretty servant girl. He was ragged and dity and not prepossessing of appearance, but his intelligent conversation and gentlemanly demeanor secured him employment, and his tal-nt som brought him recognition. He early made it his business to get thoroughly acquainted with his disreputable people in the city, where his knowledge of all manner of "ways that are dark and tricks that are vain" secured for him a warm welcome.

when Stein arrived in Kansas City he gave the ame of John Bell, and by this he was generally hown until he killed George Fredericks. But his right name was discovered to his newspaper shociates by a tramp printer who had known him hafarests. Stein and he was a in Lafayette. Stein gave as his excuse for assuming an alias that he had killed a man in Colorado in a fight and didn't want to be bothered about the matter. This was afterward proven false, and it never was quite clear why he took the time of John Bell.

ame of John Bell. One night Stein shot George Fredericks, the Proprietor of the Comique theater. Stein had been lound in the room of Fredericks's mistress, Matter Hartline. There had been some words, but the quarrel had ended before they had left the room. Going down stairs Stein shot Fredericks in the back of the head, stepped over his body to the Rucet and coolly told a policeman what he had done.

There is little doubt in the writer's mind that stein killed Fredericks merely for the sake of tilling a man. He justifies this belief by the last that Stein had always admired the desperators with large private graveyards, had often expressed a desire to know how it seemed to kill a man, and had repeatedly said he had rather be lesse James than be president. That he felt no negret at not having taken a fellow man's life was shown in an incident after the shooting. Fredericks did not die for three days. On one of these days the writer, thinking Stein would be glad to hear it, said there was a chance for Fredericks to cret well.

"Get well, h.—I," said Stein. "He can't get well. He's got a hole in his head I can put my fist through."

From that day to this, probably, no one has eard him express a regret for having killed Federicks.

Stein's trial was an exciting one. Though the test legal talent of Indiana and Missouri was employed, the jury fixed his punishment at twenty-way ears in the penitentiary, and public sentiment generally condemned the jury for not making the harding. A legal technicality secured a new sail and Stein's release on bail.

And here the audacity of the man was shown. On the very night of his release he succeeded in awing the Hartline woman, the mistress of his frietim, smuggled into his room in the hotel.

After his release Stein's old employer took; him has, though this act lost his paper hundreds of sheribers, so bitter was the feeling against the sanderer. One would have thought that with the shadow of the gallows always across his path the said of the gallows always across his path the said of the gallows always across his path the said houses of ill-repute, and had as his boon companions Bob Ford, the man who shot Jesse James, and Dick Liddell, who conspired with Bob and Charlie Ford to murder their cousin and leader for the reward on his head. When the murder case was again called for trial several important wineases had disappeared, two having died violent deaths, and after a hard fight Stein was acquitted. Then Stein returned to his home in Lafayette. Shortly afterward his father died and he induced his mother to put all her money, iscluding the insurance of $10,000 on his father's life, in his keeping. He started The Comet, a humorous paper of a high order of merit, but after a few weeks stopped its publication, took all that was left of his mother's money, went to St. Louis and was engaged on The St. Louis Globe-Democrat. He joined interests with a pretty woman of the town and took his residence at a fashionable boarding house. The pleasant ways of the couple soon gained them entree to the best society. Invitations poured in from all quarters, and n.no of those from houses where cards were like y to be played were ever answered with regrets. It wasn't long till all St. Louis people were talking of the phenomenal luck at cards of the agreeable young couple, but no one suspected them of sharp practices.

Stein created a tramendous sensation during the great strike on Gould's southwestern system by writing up in The Globe-Democrat a sensational story in which he claimed to have attended a meeting of the executive committee of the Knights of Labor and discovered a plot to murder Missouri Pacific officials and a lot of other highly improbable stuff. This publication did much to break the strike. A weel later Stein was a fugitive, having forged the n

Returning to America he went to Maniton Springs, Col., where he represented himself as an English lord. The mining magnates and other shouldy society people of that resort welcomed him with open arms, banqueted and feted him and finally cashed drafts for him to the extent of $12,000. The next heard of Stein he was in the Florids penitentiary "suffering from consumption" and never expecting to see freedom again.

A few days ago the officer was searching for several moonshiners near the town. He failed to find them and returned to Clarksville. He came to quite a prominent road there, when he was met and attacked by two well-known illicit distillers, "Bud" Youngblood and "Wash" Gabels. This was after several words that indicated a bad feeling. The two men sprang upon him with drawn knives and slashed at him. The Clothing Manufactured by Mr. H. B. Elston—A Pointer for You.

In selecting goods of any description, it is always the policy of the wise purchaser to get the best. The best lasts longer, it gives better satisfaction, and never places you in an embarrassing position. When you are dressed in an elegant, neatifitting suit, it don't make any difference where you are, you will always feel at home.

I have a full line of suitings, vestings, overcoatings, and, for that matter, everything pertaining to this special line, and am prepared to make your clothes at a very low figure. While my store is located right in the heart of the city, I don't have to pay big rents and other expenses necessarily attending them, and am thus enabled to make your clothes at a less figure than others. And there is one thing I pride myself on, and that is giving a perfect fit. Having already made a large number of suits for the business men of Atlants, is an assurance to me that my work and my prices are not unappreciated. The Atlanta Negroes Do Not Believe Parks's Story

ABOUT HIS RECENT AFRICAN TRIP,

And Gaston, the Emigrant Schemer. Catches Their Approval as Well as Their Money—The Meetings.

Green Parks, the negro who has just re turned from Africa, is by no means prime favorite with his brothers in black of Atlanta. Gaston, the emigration schemer, is an extremely large part of the people—that is, the colored people. Parks lectured a few nights ago, and Gaston's friends say it was to empty nches. Gaston held a mass meeting Tuesday night, and all the old members of the emigration society re-enlisted, besides payment of—some say a quarter and some a dollar. Parks's friends say the initiation fee is just as much as Gaston can get.

The better class of negroes side with Parks nd understand the matter, but the masses many new ones being initiated by the seem crazy to go to Africa.

Parks tells them of his trip. How he sold his possessions here and with his wife and children sailed for Africa. How after reaching that country he found it full of ignorant natives and designing people who had gone there for gain. How poor the land was, and how expensive was ordinary food, such as few from this country could exist upon. Then the climate, hot and sickly, and the pests in the shape of poisonous insect and pestilent disease. .He draws a picture, showing that the country is not only one where life is miserable but that even if endured there can be no financial or other gain. He shows that to an there, and that he knows from dear experience what foolishness there is in a trip.

To all this Gaston answers by saying the man is a fraud, paid to tell these lies, and that he has never been out of the United States. A big majority of the negroes say the same and Parks's story is spoken of with scorn. Instead of stopping the African craze, his return adds fuel, and never before have Atlanta negroes been in a more excited state about leaving for the land of darkness. Tonight Parks delivers a free lecture, to which all are invited.

which all are invited.

Tomorrow night Gaston talks again, and will continue gathering his crowds until time for sailing, so he says.

He will have a great number out, and ninetenths of the negroes appear deeply enthused in the schame.

Patronize Home Industry.

Isn't it a treat to be able to get real, genuine home-made preserves, jellies and sweet pickled peaches without the worry and trouble of making them and the discomforts occasioned by a hot kitchen? Yet that is exactly what you will find at our store. So many of our customers wanted goods that we knew to be absolutely pure, that we determined to make them at home. We carefully selected the fruit, using only the best. We use pure granulated sugar only. The utmost attention and care is given to the making of them, and we can guarantee not only absolute purity, but that flavor which only the home-made goods have.

A Plan of Escape.

After many plans had been suggested, discussed and rejected as too risky, one was at last hit upon that it was thought would work successfully.

This was nothing less than to have Balmaceda disguise himself as a drunken United States sailor. The clothing was sent ashore in a market boat last night by order of Admiral Brown. It was smuggled by one of Balmaceda's faithful adherents into the house where the ex-president was in hiding.

He carefully donned it, and, after a close inspection of his new and strange attire to see that there was nothing about the get-up which would arouse suspicion, he stole out by a rear entrance into the street.

He Played His Part Well.

Nightfall favored his disguise, and he had studied his part so well that he feigned a drunken tar to perfection. In his way toward the water front he rolled by many men who would have been delighted to have had the chance to seize and turn him over to the police authorities. In time he reached the spot in the harbor that had been avranged moon. the harbor that had been arranged upon. There he found a boat awaiting him. The officers of the San Francisco were questioned about the matter, but resolutely refused to discussit. The San Francisco left Valparajso this evening for Callao. Thence it will sail for California. THE NEW YORK MARKET.

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, September 16.—The stock market tolay displayed more activity than for a long time, but day displayed more activity than for a long time, but at the same time it was irregular in its movements, the bear and bull forces distributing their strength unqually over the list; and, while some stocks this evening are materially higher, others are lower, and a majority is with the latter. The great feature of the early trading was the heavy and apparently enthusiastic buying for foreign account, but advantage was taken of this demand by many domestic holders to realize on their stocks, and a feverish and generally strong market was succeeded by a slow but steady depression in the afternoon. Advices from abroad were all of a most encouraging nature, and the rush to buy caused an extraordinarily active business during the first hour, and, in fact, during the whole forenoon, but later a cessation in this urgent demand permitted caused an extraordinarily active business during the first hour, and, in fact, during the whole forencon, but later a cessation in this urgent demand permitted a decline in prices, while the market quieted down perceptibly. Union Pacific was the special point of attack for the bears, the only reason given for selling being the rumors of a forthcoming unfavorable statement, but quantities of other leading stocks, including some of the Vanderbilts, were thrown upon the market, and hence most of the active stocks are slightly lower as a result of the day's operations. After Union Pacific, which was strong in the early dealings, Grangers were pressed for sale most urgently, and many of them show large fractional losses for the day. The opening was active, strong and confident, and, notwithstanding the pressure to sell, the morning hours saw a material advance all along the line, under the lead of the stocks mentioned, but the alacking off of the demand gave the bears the advantage later in the day, and prices all through the afternoon yielded slowly but steadily, and before the close almost all the early gains were wiped out, with something in addition. Ontario and Western sold up to 22%, but reacted to 21% at the close, but Reading rose to 39, and closed at its highest figure. Kansas and Texas preferred rose ito 23%, but settled back to 27%. The market finally closed active and heavy to weak, with some fractional losses from the first prices as a rule. The rose $10 28%, but settled back to 27%. The market finally closed active and heavy to weak, with some fractional losses from the first prices as a rule. The final changes of note include advances of 2% in Kansas and Texas preferred, 1% in Reading, 11% in Ontario and Western, and 1% in Cordage, while Burlington scored a loss of 1 per cent. Messrs. Youngblood & Haas.

NEW YORK, September 15.—London prices, were bouyant this morning and are opening here very trong, and at higher prices on the entire list. Most of the buying orders seemed to be in the hands of commission offices, and the selling seemed to be done by professionals and traders. There is no doubt that we have had considerable steam on for a couple of days and the temptation to realize profits was too great for the average trader to resist, but we think they will find it easier to dispose of their stocks than it will be to buy them back again, and each upward spurt seems to start from a higher basis than the previous one. This start from a higher basis than the previous one. This is a bull market and it has come to stay, and we doubt that sellers even at the highest prices of today will be able to replace their stock at much of a profit. The weak feature of the market for the moment is the heaviness of the Gould stocks and the weakness of Union Pacific, and it begins to idok as though the insiders in this company had about made up their minds that it was to show no evidence of the general improvement until congress had met and a settlement of the government debt effected. Strongest securities were Reading and incomes, the former advancing 2 per were Reading and incomes, the former advancing 2 per art from a higher basis than the previous one. This Reading and incomes, the former advancing 2 ne were Reading and incomes, the former advancing 2 per cent for the day on large purchases by the old bull party. The pool in this stock is now dissolved and we soon expect to see the public take hold of it, and we predict higher prices for all the securities of the road Ontario and Western opened at a sharp advance on rumors of a Vanderbilt control. This stock looks cheap irrespective of any such deal. Money was fairly plentiful at about 4 per cent, and bonds are beginning to show the effect of this.

NEW YORK, September 16—The improvement in Liverpool this morning was quite a surprise, resulting in an advance here of about 106412 yolnts which, however, was not maintained, values almost immediately after opening again declining b points under a desire to realize, while later in the day a further decline of about 10 points set in under the influence of liberal receipts and reported favorable weather in the south. It appears to us as if sentiment here has, the past few days, turned in favor of lower prices; and, although we are not inclined to look upon this as a factor to govern prices in the long run, we cannot close our eyes to the fact that for the time being at least sentiment is an important factor in governing values from day to day. Thus it is that in the absence of any stimulating influences values may sell somewhat lower, though we doubt that the abort side will present opportunities for any but very moderate profits, while we, for our part, believe it much asfer to take advantage of weak spots on which to buy, for we believe, while that on the long side, the possibilities of a substantial advance are many.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions. Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, September 18.—Wheat opened decidedly lower this morning on weaker cables and the collapse of the European war scare. There was free selling at the outset, December going to 96½ca96½c, but the shorts, who have profited by the recent experience in which they have been badly squeezed because they waited too long, began to take their profits freely, and their buying soon put the price up to 97½c. Then came the reports of yesterday's clearances at the Atlantic seaboard, showing an aggregate of over one million bushels, which gave added strength to the market and caused a spurt of buying which put December up to 97½c. The price hung around that figure for some time, again broke to 96½c on the weak closing cables, improved some, but closed steady at 97c, a loss of ½c compared with the closing figures of yesterday. There was a little flurry on an unfathered rumor that Italy had ordered the completion of the ironclads now under construction with all possible dispatch, and had directed that the reserves be got in readiness for duty at office; but it quickly died out Hutchinson is said to have telegraphed here from New York that wheat is a sale for 90c and corn for 50c. Another telegram from New York said that Russia will have to supply thirty provinces of the empire with food. Partridge sold wheat at 97½c, and Hutchinson was supposed to have sold freely through brokers.

Corn opened easy on account of fine, warm maturing weather in the corn belt, and in sympathy with lower prices for wheat. October started at 531/@54c, against prices for wheat. Octobers started at $25,2600c, against $41/4c at the close yetsterday, advanced with wheat to $41/2c, broke to $53/4c, recovered some, but weakened again, selling off to $3c and closing easy at $53/2c. The market was very weak during most of the session, chiefly due to fine whather. Some of the old-time bulls were tree sellers and lividistics of lowering was free. There was a rumor in circulation that the clique was selling a good deal.

Oats were quiet and easy in sympathy with corn, The provision market was heavy from start to finish, and the lowest prices of the session were current as the market closed. The decline since yesterday amounts to 20c in barrel pork, 10c per hundred in lard and from 71/46112/e per hundred in ribs. There was a fair speculative business, sellers for the most part being thred longs and packers.

CHICAGO, September 16.—Large receipts and lower markets abroad caused a cent lower opening this-morning. Cables have been unusually bearish all today. Bradstreet reports 4,250,000 increase in the visible supply. On the other hand clearances amounted to 1,350,000 bushels, and exporters. visible supply. On the other hand clearances amounted to 1,250,000 bushels, and exporters were freer buyers than they have been for some time, this being the only sustaining feature in the market.

Receipts of corn continue very large, and the weather is unusually favorable for maturing the most backward sections. The demand for cash, and sample lots of oats and corn was not favorable to holders. The market closed heavy at from 162% below yesterday's prices. The market closed neary as from Ages to clow yes-terday's prices.

Owing to the lack of demand and the decline in coarse grains, provisions were heavy and closed decid edly lower. "Plenty of corn means fat hogs," is the cry of the provision speculator, and the result is lower GRAIN, PROVISIONS, ETC.

will be educated and fitted as far as possible for the battle of life.

"To illustrate the need of this home: I have a lady in Atlanta—an Odd Fellow's videw—who is in yery frail health, and she has three little girls, who are not old enough to do anything toward making a living, and who are entirely dependent on her for support. It is a hard struggle with her, a bitter lattle for bread. She has done the only thing she could do—tried to run a boarding house, but that has proved to be not very lucrative. These little girls could be taken into the home if we had one, and cared for and given an education. I could tell of other cases, but I just mention that one as an instance."

There is no doubt whatever about the home being built, and the Atlanta Odd Fellows think it will be built here.

JUST LIKE ATLANTA. A Big Note Paid a Month Before It Is

Within the past few days money has been flowing into the treasury through the tax collector's office. Day before yesterday Mayor Hemphill and Mr. Rice had a conanceled.

In Memoriam of George Draper McKinnon Son of W. P. and E. B. McKinnon, was born in Pulaski county, Virginia, June 7, 1861, and died of consumption in Chilhowie, Smyth county, Virginia, September 3, 1891. His friends in Atlanta, Ga., where he was in business, seeing his health was failing, advised him to come to Virginia, thinking a change of climate and rest would improve him. But, alas! she dreaded disease continued its course. His father and mother came and stayed with him and did all that kind and loving parents could do for alon, with skilled medical attention and kind friends to aid, yet death claimed him as his vicin and God took his spirit away from earth's temptations and sorrows up to heaven.

The last years of his life were spent in the employ of Messrs. Shropshire & Dodd, of Atlanta. This firm thought a great deal of him and speak weil of him and his many virtues. Mr. Shropshire and in his mother: "There are so few like him in disposition, he is as gentle and tender in his heart as a girl, and he would divide the last peany with friends, which shows his utter unself-thness and proves how tenderly his heart goes tu for the comfort of others." In a letter to Draper, he said: "You have been so pleasant, afable, attentive to business and have so endeared Jourself to me, that you appear as one of my own family." To Mrs. McKinnon, he writes again: "Draper has been a noble, generous-hearted boy, and has never harmed any one, and has been honerable and hightoned in his manners and dealings." When Draper's employer was notified of his heath, he wrote to his parents thus: "Draper, to me was like one of my own family and did not appear like others. His captivating and fascinating disposition won for him true friends and combing disposition won for him true friends and combing disposition won for him true friends and combing and his do of of will.

We expect to have the home built and ready for occupancy in twelve months. I suppose the home will be run in the same plan as Sam Jones's exphans' home. Some good man and his wife will be selected to go to the home and live and must he home. A small farm of say fifty or one hundred acres will be run in connection with the home, so that the boy inmates of the issue can be learned to work. The inmates will be educated and fitted as far as possible for the battle of life.

Atlanta paid a note for $25,000 Tuesday which is not due till next month. And a rebate of 3 per cent was secured Early this spring when the city treasury was quite low the city found it necessary to borrow some money to tide over. Twenty-five thousand dollars was secured from the Fourth National Bank of New York by Hon. Frank P. Rice, chairman of the finance committee, and the city's note, due October 8th, was given. erence about the note and quickly decided to pay it at once. Communication was opened with the bank by wire and the rebate offered.

Mr. Rice and the mayor closed the trade at once and the note has been paid and is now least every eight or ten days. In his neighborhood Colonel A. P. Stewart had made a successful experiment with onions. He sowed the seed in a hotbed and transplanted the young onions with marked success. Onions cannot be raised on heavy land in this section. Bottom land well underdrained, suits onions. Rotton stable manure is excellent fertilizer. Mr. G. K. Pettis said he had raised 400 bushels per acre. He sowed the seed in the hotbed in January and set out the plants in February. A light, red soil does well. He preferred the Italian to other varieties. From plants from the seed the same year he had raised onions weighing twenty-two ounces. The Italian onion grows as quick again as the others. The yellow varieties are the best for fall; the white for spring.

Professor D. H. Gould observed that in the craze for bulbs onlons had been passed off for hyacinth bulbs, but it was safe to say that the difference between them could be recognized in the dark by any one having the sense of smell. Onions will grow where no other crop will grow, and do not recognize a rotation. Any crop like millet or oats that leaves the ground in a pulverized condution will benefit oats. Onions take nothing from the soil that other crops require. Their roots are near the surface and full of pores, hence require air. There is more in the soil of Georgia than we think.

BY THE EAST TENNESSEE AND CENTRAL

The Claim Office Gets Here—Other Rail-road Items Picked Up in the Railroad Offices.

One of the most exciting railroad races on record was run Tuesday night between the East Tennessee and Central railroads. The race was from Atlanta to Jacksonville, and was won by the Central. Over one thousand dollars changed hands on

The race originated this way: About one month ago a cheap excursion rate from Jack-Fla., was made for the 15th. The Central railroad advertised their special train leave Jacksonville at 6:30 o'clock in the evening, and arrive in Atlanta at 7:30 o'clock the following morning. The East Tennessee then came out and advertised to leave Jacksonville at the same hour as the

the next morning.

There was much speculation as to which would beat, and Tuesday night when the two trains left Jacksonville together, excitement race in Jacksonville, and from one thousand ollars to one thousand and five hundred dollars were staked on the result.

Central, and arrive in Atlanta an hour sooner

The two trains came from Jacksonville to Vaycross together, over the Savannah, Florida and Western railroad, and there separated, the East Tennessee going by Jesup and the coaches and three sleepers, and the East Ten-lessee had four coaches and two sleepers. They separated at Waycross in the dead of night, but the excursionists, their interest kindled to fever heat, did not close their eyes in sleep. Those in charge of the two trains urged the engineers of their respective trains along as fast as they could.

Macon was reached in the wee sma' hours of yesterday morning, by both trains almost at the same moment, and together they pulled out of the Central city, after a stop of about three minntes. The race was then narrowing down and interest was increasing. Engineer Bill Clark was in charge of the Central's train, and he has a record as an air-splitter that is hard to

Through the gray mists of the mild Septen ber morning the two trains dashed madly along like some great monster of life.

The interest of the passengers increased as they came nearer to Atlanta, and any num-ber of bets were made by the passengers.

When the Central train came puffing up to Michell street crossing, a man sprang from the engine and ran up the track in front, waying his hat like mad. At the same time two gentlemen stepped out of the engine cab and walked forward on the foot board of the engine and began decorating the locomotive.

The Central had won, and before Whitehall street was reached, engine 547, which pulled the train, was literally covered with ribbons, and on either side was stretched at full length Engineer Clark was givenja great ovation, when the depot was reached, by the delighted passengers. Fifteen minutes later the East e train pulled up at Whitehall street, having been delayed for a few minutes. They were met by the Central passengers with toothpicks in their mouths, who pointed them to the Kimball house, and said, "Boys, we left you some breakfast."

It was a remarkable race, and both lines did nselves proud.

The Claim Office Here.

The claim agent's office of the Richmond and Danville reached Atlanta yesterday from Richmond. All the office fixtures, typewriting machines, books and clerks came fine-looking set of fellows and expressed themselves as delighted, and seemed better pleased with Atlanta than any of the Richmond and Danville clerks who have yet come here.

A. J. Crane.

Mr. W. H. Halsey, the head of this department, did not come yesterday, but will reach here Tuesday.

The claims office of the Central road will come here from Savannah with soven men, and a few days later the claims office of the Georgia Pacific will reach here from Birmingham with eight men. All will be consolidated and will be located on the Central road. There Is No Contest.

There Is No Contest.

The Macon Telegraph printed, a few days ago, a story to the effect that there was to be a lively contest between the Central and East Tennesse roads for the handling of the Florida mails. The Central now has the contract, but The Telegraph said that the East Tennessee said they could put the mails in Atlanta sconer, and that each road was to inaugurate a fast schedule to compete for the mails.

A DELIGHTFUL ENTERTAINMENT.

The Mutes and the Blind of the City Royally Entertained.

A most delightful reception was tendered the mutes and blind unfortunate young people of the city at the residence of Dr. I. L. Couch, of the city at the residence of Dr. I. L. Couch, 268 Houston street, Tuesday night last.

There were about thirty or more of these young people present, and the time was very pleasantly spent, in recitations, etc., by Dr. Couch. Among the most enjoyable features of the evening programme was the vocal and instrumental music rendered by Ora, Emma and Johnny Landrum, the bright children of Judge S. H. Landrum. Among those present to take part in the affair, besides the little ones of Judge Landrum, were Miss Estelle Lester, who also performed beautifully on the plano.

The Misses Minnie Mathenia and Ella Groom, two mutes, rendered a part in the programme in a charming manner, to the delight of all present.

This school is one for young ladies and married ladies, and its session will be from 10 °clock a. m. to 12 °clock m. every day. In the afternoon from 3 o'clock to 5 o'clock there will be a children's classical school. Such and now that Miss Love has undertaken this work, she should have the support and co-operation of all those who take an interest in education. In speaking with her yesterday relative to the opening of her school, she said:

"Realizing how much of culture may be acquired through these studies, and how greatly they are necessarily neglected in the busy hours of a crowded school life; how very pleasant and profitable they may be made, and having given several years to a special preparationfor teaching them. I years to a special preparation for teaching them, I was led to believe that a school of this character was very much needed in Atlanta, and that it would accomplish great results. This school is special for those who have finished their regular school course, and those who have been deprived of this privilege, to enter once more the field of culture and glean what they may from the harvest of learning. My school will not be confined strictly to English literature, but will include the German and also the French."

Miss Love has prepared a paper on Sydney Lanier, and cordially invitesthe ladies offAtlanta to her lecture room Friday evening at 4 o'clock where she will read it. Doubtless a large number will be on hand to hear Miss Love's essay on the

IT ATTRACTS THE PEOPLE.

The King Hardware Co.'s Cutlery Sale—A Pointer for You.

In Sunday's Constitution, the King Hardware Company announced that they would, beginning Monday morning, sell pocket cutlery and scissors, butcher knives, bread knives, cake knives, fruit knives, etc., at a greatly reduced price, and asked the people from everywhere to come to their store, corner Peachtree and Wheat streets, and buy for themselves almost 'without money and without price."

Yesterday, a Constitution representative was informed by Mr. King that he had already sold pocket knives to parties in Charleston, S. C., and Tampa, Fla. He said:

"I am convinced that advertising in THE Constitution is a paying investment. I have sold gross after gross of pocket knives and scissors, and my store has been thronged with "Tomorrow morning. I will offer for sale pocket knives, from 5 cents to 50 cents, that cost me over $1. I will not stop at pocket knives, however, for I have a supply of butcher knives, bread knives, cake knives, table knives and forks, plated and steel scissors of every description, that I am going to sell at the same rate. I have the knives, and am going to sell them out right now. These enives are of superior brands, and I guarantee them to be exactly as represented. Why, just think of getting a good pocket knife anywhere for from 5 cents to 50 cents, when, indeed, these very knives cost more than $1mined not to be undersold.

"It is not my purpose to cut prices in goods, but there are ways and ways of advertising, and I think this is a good one. If I can, by sacrificing the profit on my cutlery trade for a while, advertising my business extensively throughout the south Atlantic states, I think I will have accomplished a good result. It is to this end that I am offering this cutlery so cheap. This is not a fake offer, but a bona fide one, and I ask the good people of Atlanta, and of Georgia, to call at my store and inspect my line of cutlery for themselves. They will see that they can get just what they want for less than half what they would have to pay elsewhere."
